

Brent DeDear CEO of Paleo Resources

Brent DeDear has extensive experience in oil company acquisitions, due diligence and curative work as well as all aspects of field land work. He has managed and completed projects ranging in size from small teams to crews well over 100 Landmen in size. Brent's background as a business owner with strong management skills makes him a natural leader as he oversees budgets, personnel and client relationships.

Brent's degree and prior career in Ranch Management give him a practical hands-on understanding of and a unique approach to landowner issues. His experience as a field landman has fine-tuned his ability to successfully negotiate issues between landowners and oil and gas companies.

Originally from Victoria, Texas, Brent has lived in East Texas since 2003 with his wife Rhonda. He and Rhonda have headquartered in the East Texas area and grown their businesses into companies that serve on a nationwide scale.
